

Was Shakespeare in love with a Transsexual? Why do we love drag, but hate homosexuality?

For centuries, “crossdressing” has been a primary source of theatrical entertainment, yet the people who cross dress, both men and women, have been constantly persecuted, often with extreme violence. Gender diversity boasts a highly visible but rarely discussed history about people both loved and hated at the same time.

Join Rikki Arundel for a fascinating journey accross the gender divide that is both historical and personal. Discover the real truth about gender crossing and homosexuality in her speech which is both controversial and entertaining.

Rikki Arundel loves being transgender. That surprises people, but at the age of 50 as a high profile and well known international motivational speaker, having spent all of her life “in the closet” and threatened with being outed, she very publicly changed her gender and has never looked back.

A successful entrepreneur, Rikki is the founder and director of GenderShift and also founded the Professional Speakers Association. Since coming out, she has devoted her life to and has become a leading equality and diversity expert in the UK. She now specialises in gender and transgender issues, delivering keynote speeches and highly successful training workshops to leading organisations throughout the UK.
